

SHARES MAKE HEAVY GAINS DURING WEEK

Operations Set New Record Since Last Boom Period of 1918—Progress Prominent Factor.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The stock market rounded out a month of broad dealings at irregularly higher prices in a week which closed Saturday operations for the six sessions approximated 4,600,000 shares, unprecedented since the last boom period of 1918. The movement centered chiefly in issues of the various operating groups.

Belief that the peace treaty will soon be consummated and the overhanging condition of the market in the early weeks of the year were influential factors.

Among the more definite considerations of an encouraging character were the many signs of domestic business improvement, extremely favorable crop prospects and the maintenance of foreign trade balances.

Although rates strengthened, only moderate gains were realized. The government securities market was particularly active, with the 4½ percent bonds showing a gain of 1½ points, and the 5 percent bonds showing a gain of 1 point.

Arrangements for the flotation of the Victory loan assumed more tangible form, but important details remain to be worked out. The government emphasized the importance of extending further credits to foreign countries.

HOPE TO WIND UP WORK THIS WEEK

For the school board and for the state banking department.

Attorney General Freeling said today that he did not oppose this provision so much for the reason that it would take away from him the right to designate the attorneys for these departments as for the reason that it would cause a conflict and a double expense. No provision was contained in the bill, he said, which would cut off from his force the two men whom he is now empowered to name to serve as assistant attorneys general to be assigned to those two departments. He wanted the legislature to designate who should act, whether his office or the special attorneys provided for in the bill.

Taking everything into consideration, this promises to be the most momentous week in the history of the legislature. The road measure, after being held up from day to day, will be reported out of conference tomorrow, according to members of

EMPRESS SHOW IS A JIM-DANDY

New Bill Starting Yesterday One of Best of the Year.

You needn't be afraid of that new show at the Empress. It's worth more than you'll pay to see it. From start to finish it is smart, high-class, good-looking, beautifully gowned women, both men and women in each act real artists, and they entertain you delightfully. The show is so good that any act on the bill could hold down headline position. There is a corking comedy sketch from the Orpheum circuit presented by Raymond Bond and Elizabeth Shirley, a remarkably clever "blue" singer, Kittle Hart in the girl team of Hekey and Hart, Maybelle Phillips, "The Sunshine girl," and well named—with delicious stories and songs, and two excellent opening and closing acts—Doherty and Sealie in the first and the Ellis Nowland Troupe for the latter. It's a Jim-Dandy show and don't miss it.

SEE "FALSE FACES" BY ALL MEANS

Rialto's Big Picture Production of Louis Joseph Vance's Great Story.

If you did not see the Paramount-Artcraft special production of "False Faces," Louis Joseph Vance's great Saturday Evening Post story and sequel to "The Lone Wolf" at the Rialto yesterday, see it today. It is a masterpiece of picture-making, acted and one of the finest pictures Tulsa screen fans have seen in a long time. Ask any of the thousands who saw it yesterday.

It's a thrilling, compelling story and the settings are most extraordinary. "False Faces" has every element of a great picture—story, acting, direction and production. It's rare screen entertainment, a picture that will stay with you.

Henry B. Walthall as "The Lone Wolf" is great and his support is splendid with charming Mary Anderson in the leading feminine role.

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon in a telegram to Secretary Baker would not be made public until after Secretary Baker returns from a trip through the western states. The reply of Lieutenant Ansell, Secretary Baker, shows affirmatively and convincingly the necessity of court martial reform, a subject in which the public and congress are now vitally interested.

General Crowder at the request of Secretary Baker outlined in a letter to the secretary a week ago the differences which he had had with Colonel Ansell in matters regarding the court martial system. After Colonel Ansell submitted a reply, which the war department announced would not be made public until after Secretary Baker returns from a trip through the western states.
